

YES, Culture makes this city great!

New York City's 1,300 plus cultural organizations and thousands of individual artists are essential to the economy and identity of the city, creating more than 120,000 jobs and generating $8.1 billion in economic activity. And yet, nonprofit culture receives less than one-fourth of one percent of the overall city expense budget.

Sign the appeal and tell city leaders: culture is worth one percent of the city expense budget.
